

Inside Transformative Methods

Exploratory Days between Geographical Theories and Practices

September 22-23-24, 2025 - Padua
Museum of Geography , Via del Santo 26

Inside Transformative Methods are days for dialogue and exchange on transformative geographical methods, understood as situated practices that intertwine theoretical reflection, experience, and the desire for collective change. These days are conceived as a shared space to critically reflect on how, where, and with whom knowledge is produced, weaving together academic and non-academic knowledge and practices. Thanks to the contribution of guests from different fields, perspectives, and experiences, we will engage with theoretical inputs, workshops, and performances.

Each day will begin with a geographical subject — archives, maps, bodies — to explore their materiality and transformative potential through interdisciplinary and generative dialogues.

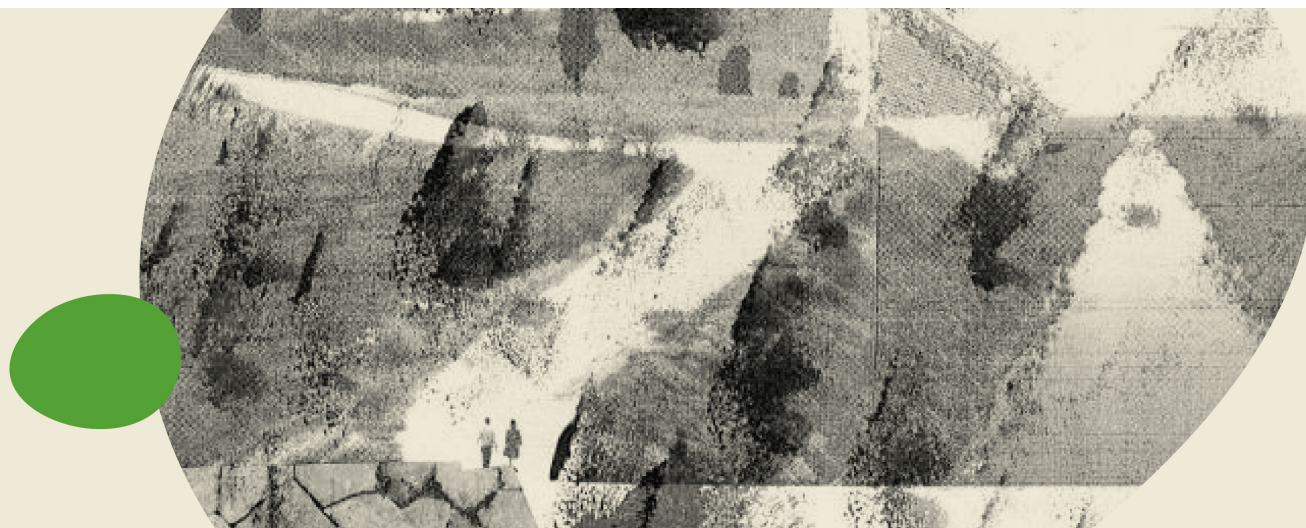

Scientific and Organizing Committee:
DeMeTra: Francesca Acetino, Diletta Damiano, Ginevra Montefusco, Mariasole Pepa, Chiara Rabbiosi.

The event is free, accessible, and open to all. Everyone is welcome!
